*27 Feb 1832 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Monday, 27 Feb 1832:

General M’Kenzie, now Sir Kenneth M’Kenzie, Bart, of Glenberire, in Kincardineshire, who was honored with the dignity of a Baronet, soon after the coronation, is, we believe, the uncle of Colonel Kenneth Snodgrass, our highly respected and active Brigade Major, and of his brother, Major Snodgrass, one of the few military men of the present day, who wield the pen with as much vigour as the sword.

*2 Aug 1832 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Thursday, 2 Aug 1832:

Council Chamber, Sydney, 16th July, 1832.

This Day, Lieut. Col. K. Snodgrass, C.B., being senior officer of His Majesty’s Land Forces, in the Colony, was sworn in a Member of the Executive Council of New South Wales, and took his seat accordingly.

E. D. Thomson, Clerk of the Councils.

*13 Jul 1835 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Monday, 13 Jul 1835:

The daughter of Sir A. Campbell is married to the brother of Colonel Snodgrass, Brigade Major of New South Wales. Major Snodgrass wrote an excellent work on the Burmese War, in which he was actively engaged with his father-in-law.

5 Sep 1836 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Monday, 5 Sep 1836:

On Monday evening, about seven o’clock, the Ceres was proceeding towards Sydney, a heavy sea on, when she struck on a rock called Bullee Nogglen, a perpendicular rock with deep water all round, situate between Bird Island and Bungaree Norah, and stove in her bows, the vessel receded for a considerable distance with the shock; the Captain, finding the vessel going down, gave directions to clap on all the power and run in shore; the water, however, rushing in, soon extinguished the fires; the passengers and crew betook themselves to the boat, which would not contain a quarter of them, there being about fifty persons; the vessel was not a mile from the shore, and it being a beach, the boat soon landed a portion, and at four trips took the whole; the last boat’s crew were obliged to climb the rigging, as the vessel was fast settling, and some were compelled to swim for the shore, and were picked up by the boat; fortunately the whole were safely landed; about 60 sheep were on board, which all swam ashore, with the exception of one. ...

Among the passengers we understand were Captain Levingstone, Captain Anlaby, Mr. Hugh Snodgrass, Mr. Donaldson, Mr. Perry, &c. &c.

*6 Oct 1836 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Thursday, 6 Oct 1836:

The Honorable Colonel Snodgrass, M.C. and C.B., has gone to Hobart Town in the Francis Freeling, to take command of the troops, and to act as Lieutenant Governor of Van Dieman's Land, till the arrival of Sir John Franklin.

*16 Jun 1837 – The Morning Post (London, England), Friday, 16 Jun 1837:

Sydney papers to the 26th of February have likewise come to hand. The Sydney Gazette mentions that Colonel Snodgrass would probably assume the Governorship of the new settlement of Port Philip.

*14 Dec 1837 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Thursday, 14 Dec 1837:

John Snodgrass, Esq., son to the Acting Governor, has been appointed His Excellency's Private Secretary.

19 Oct 1839 – The Morning Chronicle (London, England), Saturday, 19 Oct 1839:

Progress of the Colony of South Australia

[From the South Australian Gazette, May 15, 1839]

During the week we have to announce the arrival overland from New South Wales, of 1,000 head of cattle, in fine condition, belonging to D. Macfarlane, Esq., under the direction of Mr. Snodgrass. The herd is now depasturing in the fertile district of Mount Barker, and will probably soon be brought to market. All the stock hitherto brought overland has been sold at good prices, and the superior quality of Mr. Macfarlane's herd will, no doubt, bring ample remuneration to that enterprising colonist.

*11 Dec 1839 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Wednesday, 11 Dec 1839:

Died. At Kilarity, Hunter's River, on the 31st October, Jessie, wife of William M'Lean Esq, daughter of the late Rev. John Snodgrass, D.D., Minister of the Middle Church, Paisley, and sister of Colonel Snodgrass, C.B., late Acting Governor of the Colony.

*8 Feb 1840 – The Standard (London, England), Saturday, 8 Feb 1840:

Brevet Col. K. Snodgrass, upon half-pay, unattached, has been allowed to retire from the service, by the sale of an Unattached Lieutenant Colonelcy, he being about to become a settler to New South Wales.

*10 Dec 1840 – The Morning Post (London, England), Thursday, 10 Dec 1840:

Colonel Snodgrass.—We are glad to learn that this distinguished officer is likely to receive an important appointment. It was this gallant soldier, it may be remembered, who daringly led the memorable attack at the siege of St. Sebastian in 1808, and victoriously subdued one of the most powerful fortresses on the frontiers of Spain. His bravery was represented to the Government by the Duke of Wellington, and a massive gold sword was presented to him by the Earl of Glasgow at a joyous festival given to him by his fellow townsmen. Colonel Snodgrass has since acted as her Majesty's representative in two distant colonies, and it is with pleasure that we hear of his return to a country where worth and honour are esteemed and valued.

*29 Dec 1840 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Tuesday, 29 Dec 1840: Court of Claims. Notice of Hearings.

*29 Jun 1841 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Tuesday, 29 Jun 1841: Services of Military Officers Resident in the Colony.

We have been favoured with the following account of the services of an officer now residing in the Colony, on half pay, and performing the duties of a Police Magistrate:—

Major Sullivan, brother-in-law of Colonel Kenneth Snodgrass, the hero of St. Sebastian, whose military exploits are well known, entered the army in 1800 as an Ensign in the 10th Foot, and was with the Indian Army in Egypt, under Sir David Baird, when he received the Turkish Subaltern's Medal. In 1803 he was promoted to a Lieutenancy in the 84th Foot; and in 1809 to a Company in the 3rd Ceylon Regiment. While in that Colony, during the government of the late Sir Thomas Maitland, he commanded the Ceylon cavalry, and was attached to the personal Staff of that General. In 1814 he was at the battles of Orthes and Toulouse, and at the latter, commanded the 8th Portuguese Infantry, for which he was honoured with a medal from his Sovereign, and another from the Portuguese Government. Major Sullivan retired in 1827; but, previously to his doing so, he was instrumental in obtaining for officers on half-pay (on retiring after a certain period of service, for the purpose of immigrating to a British Colony) the full value of their commissions, one-third of which was before forfeited to a Colonial Fund. Major S. is still a half-pay Major of the Portuguese Service.

*27 Aug 1841— The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, New South Wales), Friday, 27 Aug 1841:

The Army.—We copy the following notice of the death of Lieut. Colonel J. J. Snodgrass, only brother of Colonel Snodgrass, C. B., late Commander of the Forces and acting Governor of this colony, from the United Service Gazette, of the 20th of February last:—"An official report of the decease of Lieutenant-Colonel John James Snodgrass, Deputy Quartermaster General upon the staff of the Army in British North America, reached town on Tuesday last, the 16th instant. This melancholy event occurred at Halifax, Nova Scotia, on the 14th ultimo, after a protracted illness, which had induced the Lieutenant-Colonel to revisit England in May, 1839, for the purpose of consulting the most eminent of the faculty in the hope that first-rate medical advice would restore him to health. But he returned to Nova Scotia in April last, very little benefitted by the professional treatment of his case in this country, and in a state much too shattered and enfeebled to warrant the resumption of the active duties of his appointment. His wonted zeal, however, impelled him to hazard the attempt, which, unfortunately was speedily productive of an aggravated and fatal relapse, to which he ultimately fell a victim. The complaint under which he had so long laboured was hemorrhoids, for which, we believe, he was operated upon when last in the country, and which terminated in fistula. He had been in the army for a period of nearly twenty-nine years, having entered it as an Ensign in the 52nd Light Infantry on the 9th of May, 1812. On the 7th of April, 1813, he was appointed to a Lieutenancy in the same corps, in which he continued until placed upon half-pay, by reduction, on the 25th of December, 1818. He was restored to full pay, in the 38th Foot, on the 18th October, 1821, and promoted to a company in the 91st, on the 22nd December, 1825, and had held the situation in which he died from the 12th of September, 1834. Lieutenant Colonel Snodgrass served in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. He was the son-in-law to the gallant Lieutenant General Sir Archibald Campbell, Bart., G.C.B., the distinguished hero of Ava, and now Colonel of the 62nd Regiment.” The late Lieutenant Colonel Snodgrass, whose decease is thus recorded, was the second son of the Reverend John Snodgrass, D. D., minister of the middle Church of Paisley, and by his mother, now resident in this Colony, was descended from the Mackensie and Dougllass, two of the most ancient families in Scotland. He has left a widow and one son to lament their loss, at the early age of 44.

*22 Nov 1853 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Tuesday, 22 Nov 1853:

The Late Colonel Snodgrass.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald

Sir.—The following sketch of the life of that gallant officer the late Colonel Snodgrass, C.B., perhaps may be interesting to some of your readers by inserting it in your widely extended journal.

He was the eldest son of the Rev. Mr. Snodgrass, of Paisley, a Presbyterian minister, and his mother was a Miss Mackenzie, of Kilcoy, Rosshire, great-aunt of the present Baronet Sir Evans, for some time a settler in this colony. He entered the army early in life under the auspices of his uncle, the late General Kenneth Mackenzie, many years lieut.-colonel of the 52nd light infantry, which was the model regiment of the British army; instructed and drilled by that eminent soldier, the late Sir John Moore, K.B., at Thorncliffe camp on the coast of Sussex, in 1803-4. When the British government sent an army to the Peninsula, Colonel Snodgrass, after serving in the Corunna campaign, under Moore, entered the Portuguese army, and commanded first a Cuzadore regiment, and afterwards a regiment of the line, where he distinguished himself frequently, particularly at the siege and assault of San Sebastian, where he was the first to enter at the head of his regiment (13th of the line) at the little breach, having the night before personally explored the entrance by fording the river Umeralla, and eluding the French sentries. When the Portuguese government, with ingratitude unexampled even among the republican nations of antiquity, dismissed the British officers in 1822 who had disciplined their troops, and led them on to victory, he was a brigadier-general, and commanded a brigade in the province of Alentejo. For his services in the field he was nominated a Companion of the Bath in 1815, and had the gold medal for being present at San Sebastian and the battles of the Nivelle, the Nieve, and Orthes; and the silver medal for Corunna, Fuentes d'Honor, Ciudad Rodrigo, Vittoria, and some Portuguese order was conferred on him also. His townsmen also presented him with a gold-hilted sword through the hands of the late Earl of Glasgow; he was also in receipt of a pension for a severe wound in the head. When Sir John Franklin left Van Diemen's Land, he administered the civil government of that island, and afterwards that of New South Wales, between the departure of Sir Richard Bourke and the arrival of Sir G. Gipps. His venerable mother only died about a year ago, aged 90; and his brother, the late Lieut. Col. Snodgrass, formerly aide-de-camp to Sir Archibald Campbell, the conqueror of Burmah in 1825, died several years ago. He has left two married daughters and several sons, one a major in the 96th regiment, in India.

The late Colonel Snodgrass was no less distinguished for his social qualities, his unbounded hospitality, and goodness of heart, as well as for his military acquirements.

New South Wales as it IS; or, the Adventures and Experiences of John Snodgrass. Dublin: Printed for the Author.

This is an exceedingly interesting and amusing book, issued in pamphlet shape. It is not written from mere hear-say. On the contrary, the author is a gentleman of education and ability, whom we know ourselves to have been in the country about which he writes, and who is therefore a competent and most reliable authority on the subject matter of which he treats. Anyone who means to emigrate to New South Wales, or wishes to know how people live there, as also those who reside at their own snug firesides in these old countries, should read the Life, Experiences, and Struggles of John Snodgrass in this far-off colony of her Majesty Queen Victoria. We give a couple of extracts from the work, thus:—

“A Strange Attorney-General.

“Amongst many who aimed at high distinction, and plucked the laurels he aspired to, was the then Attorney-General, who but a short time before was a smart petty sessions' attorney, and one who professed strong conservative political sentiments. When, however, the whirlwind of political reformation began to raise a dust, and threatened to become a southerly burster, this migrative bird flew, like a clipper, from cold to heat, and became a partisan of the Honorable Charles Slippery. A virtuous ambition seized him, when Charley first said—‘If it is possible, you shall be my Attorney-General; but in order to effect this you must become a barrister.' The fact was, Charley could not get any of the then members of the bar to accept office under him, so thoroughly was his government despised, and he was therefore compelled to ask Mr. Swallow, or some other adventurous person, to accept the office, who, of course, would not do so, except for the purpose of turning it to the best account. To the surprise of every one, the petty sessions' attorney became a barrister, in a most incredibly short time, and was almost in the same breath appointed Attorney-General for the colony of New South Wales, and in due course was presented with the silk gown, in virtue of his office. Another yet more wonderful transmigration occurred in the same person: from being a Conservative, he became a thorough Liberal in politics, at least for the time being. An excise bill, increasing the duty on spirits (rum), was to be suddenly and privately introduced to prevent monopoly. Of course, the members of the Executive were bound to the strictest secrecy. A few days before the passing of this bill, a merchant who had lived a 'long' time in colonies, purchased every gallon of rum that could be got, and became the sole proprietor of (it may be said) all the stock in trade of that commodity. The bill was passed, and every one had it that Mr. Short made a tremendous bit, and realized upwards of £30,000 by this speculation. Inquiries were made how he could have obtained the information which led to his making these purchases, when, indeed, it seemed almost needless to inquire, as the first fact which struck everybody was, that the Attorney-General was a connection of his, and from being rumoured, it became publicly stated, in fact, published, that the Attorney-General had sold the pass, and his connection consequently realized this enormous sum through his instrumentality, to the detriment of the public, generally, and in violation of all honor, public morality, and integrity."

"Farming in Sydney.

"Snodgrass had taken a small farm in the vicinity of Mudgee, which he expected to be a remunerative amusement, but in this he was sadly disappointed; for, having put in about thirty acres of tillage, which comprised the whole area of his farm, he looked forward with the expectation of reaping an abundant harvest, when, lo! the river was flooded, and behold the whole farm covered with water, which having receded, left behind an alluvial deposit of four inches in depth. In the course of a few weeks, the detriment done by this new and expeditious system of top-dressing became apparent; for every known vegetable and weed upon the face of the district were seen to make their insidious appearance, and instead of the prospects of an even crop of wheat, or barley, or maize, as had been anticipated, a most incongruous mass of many foliaged vegetable productions were the sad prospects of the new farmer. Thus were the farms on the river all destroyed by this simple process of nature, the rising of the water; which would have been of the greatest service to the land, had it been laid down in pastures, and, but for this impediment to farming, the inches, or banks of the river, are better for cultivation than any other portion of the colonies. The rich, black, alluvial soil, in many parts of New South Wales extends over thousands of acres that, in propitious seasons, would grow any vegetable in the most luxuriant manner, and with but little trouble, might be tilled for years—year after year, without being worn out, or even deteriorated and that independent of manure of any description; yet the large tracts of land, of which the country, for the most part, is composed, are unfit for agriculture, but merely of a pastoral nature, and even poor for that purpose. This fact, and the great difficulties attending the transit of goods, make it appear rather extraordinary at present, to draw a working or agricultural population as emigrants into a place where they cannot possibly have a market for the disposal of their produce, and where the importer can undersell them, as long as the mode of traffic through the interior remains in the miserable state it now is, and must be for many years to come."

*3 Feb 1930 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Monday, 3 Feb 1930:

Mr. Charles Snodgrass, whose death occurred recently, was connected with the Department of Education for more than 40 years. He was headmaster of several leading schools. Mr. Snodgrass was the son of William James Snodgrass, and the grandson of Colonel Snodgrass, of the 96th Regiment, and of Dr. Housfield, both of whom served in the Indian Mutiny. He was born at Rotorua (N.Z.), in February, 1857, and went to England as a child. In early manhood he came to New South Wales and joined the Education Department, taking care of schools at Tabulam, Upper Richmond River, Tomki, Copmanhurst, Southgate, in the Clarence River district, and subsequently at Cowra, Liverpool, Gardener's Road, Botany, and Stanmore. He retired from the service twelve years ago, and resided at Chelmsford-avenue, Croydon. For a number of years he was a bass singer in the Philharmonic Society, and when at Liverpool read the lessons in St. Luke's Church. He leaves a widow, four sons, Leicester, school master at Albion Park; Charles, manager, Bank of New South Wales, Kyogle; Harold, at Geelong, Victoria; and Arthur, in the Colonial Sugar Co., Fiji. There is one daughter, Mrs. Powys. The remains were cremated at Rookwood. The Rev. H. J. Marshall, vicar of St. Matthew's, Ashbury, officiated.

Coff's Harbour, Monday. Helen Snodgrass, the five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Snodgrass, of Boambee, met with an accident on Saturday afternoon. Her parents were away from the farm when the girl, with two brothers, went to a pumping plant, ventured too near the engine, and her long hair caught in the belting, and she was dragged off her feet. Her hair freed itself from the belting in time to prevent her from being drawn into the machinery. It was found that [a] portion of the scalp had been lifted.

*27 Oct 1933 – Daily Advertiser (Wagga Wagga, Australia), Friday, 27 Oct 1933:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bourne, of "Oakleigh," Collingullie, celebrated their golden wedding on Tuesday, October 24. Mr. and Mrs. Bourne (nee Jean Snodgrass) were married October 24, 1883, at Quorn, South Australia, by the Rev. R. Kenny. In 1883 they came to live in The Rock district, for some years, and later acquired the "Oakleigh" property at Collingullie, where they have resided ever since. There is a family of six children, all married with the exception of the youngest son who lives with his parents. There are 25 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. All are living in the Wagga district. The re-union took the form of a dinner with a large wedding cake in the centre of the bridal table. The bride was presented with a lovely bouquet of roses tied with satin streamers, by the eldest grandchild, Miss Bourne, on behalf of the grandchildren. Mr. J. H. Morrow, an old friend of the family, proposed the toast of the King. The toast of the bride and bridegroom was accorded musical honour's. Messrs. J. H. Kendall, H. Smyles, and W. R. Snodgrass endorsed the chairman's remarks. Included among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. V. Bourne, of Ashfield (brother and sister-in-law), Mr. J. H. Kendall, The Rock (brother-in-law), Mr. and Mrs. W. Snodgrass (brother and sister-in-law), Mr. Henry Smyles of Leeton, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kendall and Mrs. Terlich, The Rock (nephews and nieces). Many beautiful presents were received and were on view in the dining room.

1 Nov 1935 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Friday, 1 Nov 1935:

Sydney, Thursday.—John Spears, 13 years, and Lionel Snodgrass, 12 years, of Marrickville, were drowned in Wolla Creek, Undercliffe, to-day. The two boys were swimming in shallow waters when Spears got into difficulties. His struggles carried him into the deep end of the creek, and Snodgrass, seeing his plight, swam to his assistance.

Hearing Snodgrass's cries for help, George Robert Miller, a gardener, rushed to the bank of the creek and dived to the boys' assistance fully clothed. Just before he reached them, they sank, and although he dived many times, he was unable to locate them.

Owing to the recent rains, the creek is very muddy. The police stated to-night that the boys' bodies could easily be wedged beneath rocks and would not be seen. The police commenced dragging operations immediately with grappling irons, but were forced to give up the search at dusk. Dragging operations will be continued to-morrow at daybreak.

17 Jan 1936 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Friday, 17 Jan 1936:

The committee of the Royal Shipwreck Relief and Humane Society of New South Wales has awarded, posthumously, the silver medal and certificate of merit to Lionel Charles Snodgrass, 12, for his gallant action in trying to save John Patrick Spears, 13, from drowning in Wolla Creek, Undercliffs, on October 31 last.

The boys were playing in the shallow portion of the creek when Spears, who could not swim, got out of his depth and sank. Snodgrass, a strong swimmer for his age, went to his aid, but both boys sank before other assistance arrived.

*(unknown newspaper), Saturday, 14 Dec 1940:

The Albion Park community were shocked on Wednesday morning to learn of the passing of a very popular and highly respected lady in the person of Mrs. Edith Margaret Snodgrass, who died in a private hospital at Moss Vale, after a short illness. The late Mrs. Snodgrass was a member of the very old district family of the McGills and was born near Albion Park, spending all her life in the district.

Of a charming and gracious personality, her kindly disposition made for her many friends who will be sorry indeed to hear of her passing. She had been an excellent worker for the Red Cross and all patriotic and charitable organizations in Albion Park and was also a prominent member of the Croquet Club.

She is survived by her husband, Mr. L. C. [Leicester Curzon] Snodgrass, and two daughters, Thora (Mrs. R. Foran, Moss Vale) and Vivie (Mrs. Chittick, Kangaroo Valley) to whom sympathy is expressed in their bereavement.

The funeral took place on Thursday at the Presbyterian Church, Albion Park.

19 Apr 1963 – The Sydney Morning Herald (Sydney, Australia), Friday, 19 Apr 1963:

Half-Century At Hospital Ends.

After spending more than half a century at Sydney Hospital, Mr. Jack Snodgrass, 75, of Bondi Junction, was “allowed to go home” yesterday.

The Medical Superintendent, Dr. N. H. Rose, pronounced Mr. Snodgrass hale and hearty, except for a slight cold, shook him by the hand, and allowed him to leave. Farewelled by hospital directors, doctors, nurses, and other staff, Mr. Snodgrass left the hospital after 51 years and 18 days service as a cleaner and gatekeeper.

Mr. Snodgrass joined the hospital in 1912 on a wage of 27/6 a week, held various positions on the cleaning and porter staff, and for eight years was assistant supervisor of cleanign staff. Five years ago, feeling that he should hand over the supervisor’s responsibility, he became a special constable on the hospital’s gatekeeping staff.

The secretary of Sydney Hospital, Mr. H. R. Beer, yesterday presented Mr. Snodgrass with a gold watch and a wallet at a ceremony in the boardroom and praised his kindness and thoughtfulness. Dr. Rose said Mr. Snodgrass had outlived six hospital presidents, six matrons, six secretaries, and 18 medical superintendents.

During his 51 years' service, 2,000 medical students and more than 2,000 trainee nurses had passed through the hospital. On behalf of the hospital board, a director, Mr. R. A. C. G. Cobcroft, thanked Mr. Snodgrass for his loyal service.

Mr. Snodgrass said he felt he had earned a rest and would leave soon on an overseas tour. "I might be away only eight weeks but, if I like America, I might stay six months," he said.

15 Oct 1930 – (unknown newspaper) (Findagrave), Wednesday, 15 Oct 1930:

Widespread regret was expressed on Monday when it became known that Mr. James L. Snodgrass, of "Ascot," three miles from Currie, had passed away at the cottage hospital, at the age of 43 years. He had not been in very robust health since a severe illness a couple years ago, and the middle of last week took a bad turn, as a result of which Dr. Lincoln advised his removal to the hospital on Sunday, pneumonia having developed, and he was motored there by Mr. A. Bowling. He became worse during the evening and died at 4 a.m.

Deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Snodgrass, born at Colac (Victoria) in 1887, and came to King Island in 1913, residing here ever since, with the exception of a period of four years' service at the war, in which he was wounded both on Gallipoli and in France. A sister, Mrs. C. Hardy, died only 12 day previously. He was married on 1920 to Phyllis, daughter of Mr. J. C. and the late Mrs. Alderman, and for the bereaved wife and four young daughters, sincere sympathy is expressed on all sides. "Jim" was of a genial disposition, and will also be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

The funeral took place to the Currie cemetery and proved one of the largest corteges ever seen on the Island. The coffin, draped with a Union Jack, was preceded by a large number of returned soldiers (of which organization was a valued committeeman), and at the graveside, after the burial service had been conducted by Rev. Crookes Hull, some 40 comrades stood to attention while the last post was sounded by Mr. E. Jones. An exceptionally large number of wreaths were placed upon the grave.

*7 Apr 1859 – The Morning Chronicle (London, England), Thursday, 7 Apr 1859:
The Australian Mails. Victoria.

We have only further to relate that the last effort of pure partyism has just been made in the Assembly, and with signal unsuccess. On the day following the declaration of the Ministerial land policy, Mr. Peter Snodgrass gave notice of a motion of want of confidence in the Ministry, on the double grounds of their land and their general policy. Great preparations had been by the Opposition for a grand and final assault. At all hazards, Ministers were to be ignominiously driven from office even at the twelfth hour. Everything was done that could be done in the way of mustering the adverse forces. A majority of six against the Government was confidently reckoned upon. A list of the presumptive Cabinet was in circulation. Nothing, in brief, was left undone—excepting the actual carrying of the vote of censure. But at the very last moment, the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Peter Snodgrass, rose up to announce that he would withdraw his motion! This signal and melancholy failure, it subsequently came out, had resulted from the impracticability of certain prominent members of the Opposition, who felt too keenly the ludicrousness of their position. They were about to follow a member who is about the last man in the Assembly who is popularly looked upon as a possible Premier, and whose motives for going into the opposition after having long been a thick-and-thin supporter of the present Cabinet, were notoriously of a purely personal kind. But they had not themselves the courage to take the lead. And so the final, futile, and facetious attempt to throw out the Ministry, and plunge the country into utter confusion, resulted only in a premature explosion.

**The Argus* (Melbourne, Australia), Tuesday, 26 Nov 1867:

We regret to announce the sudden death of Mr. Peter Snodgrass, the representative of South Gipps Land in the Legislative Assembly, which occurred last night, about eight o'clock, very suddenly, at his residence, Blairgowrie, South Yarra. Mr. Snodgrass attended in his place in Parliament in the course of the day, and although he had complained of pain in the region of the heart since Saturday last, when he was amongst the party who proceeded by the Aldings to Queenscliff to welcome our Royal visitor, no apprehensions were entertained of any serious consequences being likely to arise. Death, it is believed, was the result of aneurism of the heart. Mr. Snodgrass was about forty-eight years of age, and having arrived in Australia very early in life, made Victoria his home. He was a member of the old Legislative Council--before the country had a constitution--and held the office of chairman of committees. He was also, for a time, we believe, head of the police staff of the colony; and having long been associated with squatting interests, he warmly sympathized with pastoral tenants of the Crown, of whose cause he was a persistent and consistent advocate. In Parliament he never above[sic] as a speaker; but in his time he was able to do yeoman's service to the party to which he was well known to belong. He leaves a widow and eight children to regret their loss. A post-mortem examination will take place today.

*17 May 1897 – The Morning Post (London, England), Monday, 17 May 1897:

A Reuter's telegram from Melbourne says the Hon. Sir William John Clarke, Bart., who was in his 66th year, dropped dead in the street on Saturday. Sir William was born in 1831, and was the son of the late Mr. William Turner Clarke, of Fivehead, Somerset. He was for many years extensively engaged in pastoral pursuits in Victoria, and was a member of the Legislative Council of that colony. He was a munificent supporter of religious, educational, and public works in the Colony, and also of the Defense Movement, a battery of artillery being horsed and maintained at his expense. He was created a Baronet in 1882. He married first, in 1860, Mary, daughter of Mr. John Walker, of Tasmania (she died 1871); secondly, in 1874, Janet Marian, daughter of the Hon. Peter Snodgrass, of Victoria. He is succeeded by his son, Rupert Turner Havelock, born in 1865, educated at Melbourne and at Oxford University.

*31 Dec 1897 – The Morning Post (London, England), Friday, 31 Dec 1897:

Personal estate of the net value of £418,896 7s. 7d. in the Colony of Victoria, and of the value of £171,083 9s. 2d. outside the Colony, making a total in personality of £589,979 16s. 9d., has been left by Sir William John Clarke, of Rupertswood, Sunbury, Victoria, and of Cliveden, East Melbourne, first Baronet, a Member of the Legislative Council of Victoria, Chairman of the Colonial Bank of Australasia, President of the Melbourne Exhibition of 1880, who died on May 13 last, aged 66 years, son of the Hon. William Clarke, M.L.C. The late Sir William John Clarke's will bears date the 25th of April, 1894, with a codicil of August 17, 1896. He appointed as executors his wife, Lady Clarke, his brother Mr. Joseph Clarke, his cousin Mr. W. D. Clarke, Mr. T. H. Clarke, and Mr. C. F. Macdonald, to whom he bequeathed £500 a year each during the continuance of their trust, and he bequeathed to them £2,000 for such charities in the Colony of Victoria as Lady Clarke should direct. He bequeathed to her £1,000, certain pictures, furniture, and effects, and the use and enjoyment of his house Cliveden; he bequeathed to Lady Clarke £1,000, to be expended on a memorial of their late son Clive Snodgrass Clarke. The testator devised the Dowling Forest Estate or about 14,000 acres to his sons Ernest E. D. Clarke and W. L. Russell Clarke. The testator's eldest son, now Sir Rupert Clarke, second Baronet, succeeds to the Rupertswood Estate, the Dolinda Vale Estate, and the Rockbank Estate, comprising about 113,000 acres of land. Sir William John Clarke bequeathed to Miss Snodgrass £2,000; Rupert Ayres £500; to Mrs. Augusta Boodle, of Bath, a life annuity of £150; to Miss Harriet Leigh, of Bath, a life annuity of £150; to his cousin, Mrs. John Clarke, a life annuity of £50; to the wife of his coachman, a life annuity of £40, and other annuities. He bequeathed £30,000 each to his younger children, and he left residuary estate in trust in equal shares for Lady Clarke and all of his children.

Snodgrass v. Snodgrass.

This was a petition by Louisa Emily Snodgrass, formerly of Yea, but now of Dean-street, Albury, for a divorce from Archibald Augustus Hare Snodgrass on the ground of desertion. Mr. L. S. Woolf, instructed by Messrs. Emmerson and Pearce, appeared in support. Evidence was given that the parties were married on 21st November, 1880, at Yea, where respondent carried on business as a storekeeper. In Apr 1895, he got into financial difficulties, sold the furniture, and induced his wife to return to her relatives, promising that he would soon make a home for her again. He did not do so, however, and had since refused to live with his wife and family. He was now working as a miner.

A decree nisi was granted, with costs, petitioner to have the custody of the three children born of the marriage. An order was also made for alimony at the rate of 30s. per month.

*17 Nov 1904 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Thursday, 17 Nov 1904:

A fashionable wedding was celebrated at the Church of England, St. Albans, yesterday afternoon (our Geelong correspondent states), when the marriage of Adjutant Reginald Clarke, youngest son of Janet Lady Clarke, to Miss Govett, niece of Mr. R. Govett, of St. Albans, took place. The bridesmaids were the Misses Vera and Ivy Clarke, Brown, and O'Hara, and the groomsmen were Captain Robertson and Lieutenant-Colonel Hughes, while Lieutenant U. Ramsay was best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Evelyn Snodgrass, uncle of the bridegroom, assisted by the Rev. Chas. Green, vicar of Clapham, England. There were about 60 guests from Melbourne, including Janet Lady Clarke, Lady Rupert Clarke, Mrs. Faulkner, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Chas. Ryan, and Major Alston. The wedding breakfast was partaken of at the residence of Mr. R. Govett. The bride and groom left by the evening train for Ballarat.

Traralgon.—A burning fatality occurred at Glengarry on Saturday, a man named Snodgrass, aged 60 years, being the victim. Snodgrass, who was a wood cutter, went to bed on Saturday night while his mate went into the township. The latter, on returning home sometime later, found the hut in ruins, having by some means caught fire and been totally destroyed. A search among the debris revealed the remains of Snodgrass, who had apparently been burned to death in his sleep.

18 Oct 1924 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Saturday, 18 Oct 1924:

Sydney.—The final for the King's Prize at the National Rifle Association's meeting at Liverpool was shot off on Friday. The wind was tricky, a "fishtail" wafting draughts in all directions, and there was also a queer mirage observable when shooting opened at 3 o'clock. The 600 yards mound, from which Miss Jessie Snodgrass, of Rockhampton (Queensland), was firing, was the centre of interest. There were speculations as to what would happen if she won the King's. Her name certainly would go down to posterity as the first lady who had achieved such an honor. She shot well, without a doubt, and a run of bullseyes at one stage kept all eyes on her target, but the wind was too uncertain. She struck a patch of bad luck and finished with a score of 40 out of a possible 50. Still, it was good shooting.

*23 Dec 1929 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Monday, 23 Dec 1929:

The death of Rev. Canon F. E. S. [Frederic Evelyn Sturt] Snodgrass, of Como-avenue, South Yarra, took place on Friday evening at his home. The late canon was 63 years of age, and although he has been in indifferent health for some time, his death came as painful surprise to his many friends both inside and outside the Anglican community. On the day of his death, Canon Snodgrass had come into the city, and it was his intention to join in welcoming the new Archbishop of Melbourne. Deceased was married but had no family. His widow is a daughter of the late Mr. J. Lewis Kiddle, of Steam Plains, Deniliquin, and sister of Mr. J. Beacham Kiddle, solicitor. Deceased was a brother of the late Janet Lady Clarke, and of Mr. Douglas Snodgrass, and Mr. Francis Campbell Snodgrass. A widely read and travelled “man of the world” in the best sense of the term, Canon Snodgrass touched life at many points. He was devoted to many high causes, yet he always managed to spare time for good music, good drama, and good books.

The late Canon Snodgrass had a long and useful career in the church. Educated at Trinity College, Melbourne, Canon Snodgrass took the degree of B.A. in 1894, and M.A. in 1896. He became a deacon in 1891, and was ordained priest by the Bishop of Melbourne in 1892. After serving as curate in various places he became vicar of Balwyn and Canterbury, where he deeply influenced the lives of many young men. Mr. Snodgrass was incumbent of St. Mark’s, Fitzroy, in 1900, until 1909. He was also chaplain to the Children’s Hospital and St. Vincent’s Hospital, and was incumbent of St. Paul’s, Geelong, and St. James’s, East St. Kilda. From East St. Kilda he retired in 1923. He was made a canon of St. Paul’s in 1912, and warden of the council of the diocesan mission to streets and lanes in 1919.

The cremation of the remains of the late canon took place on Sunday morning. The cortege left his residence in South Yarra, and proceeded to the chapel of the Sisters of the Church, Spring-street, East Melbourne. The first portion of the service was conducted by Archdeacon Hancock. members of the council of the mission of streets and lanes were present, and blessing was given by Archbishop Head. Amongst the clerical mourners were the Bishop of Wangaratta, Dr. Hart, the Archdeacon of Carlton, Canon Lamble, Canon E. S. Hughes, Rev. R. Sherwood, Rev. Dr. A. Law. Others present at the service included Sir Frank Clarke, President of the Legislative Council.

Major-General Frederic Godfrey Hughes, C.B., V.D., who died at his home, Alma-road, St. Kilda, yesterday, 87 years, began his military career in 1875, when he joined the St. Kilda Battery of Field Artillery as a driver. When the Rupertswood battery was established by the late Sir William Clarke, he took command with the rank of major. In 1914 he organized the 3rd Light Horse unit, and served with it at Gallipoli in 1915, where he was promoted to the rank of Brigadier-general. He was mentioned in despatches, and later invalided home and placed on the retired list. He was a son of Charles William Hughes, of St. Kilda, and educated at Melbourne Church of England Grammar School. He was a member of St. Kilda council for 23 years, and mayor in 1901 and 1912. He took a keen interest in sport, and represented Victoria in inter-State rowing and football contests. He had important city mining and pastoral interests, and was a director of Dunlop Rubber Australia Ltd., and South Broken Hill Pty. Ltd. His wife, who predeceased him, was a daughter of Mr. P. Snodgrass, a former member of the Legislative Assembly, and sister of Lady Janet Clarke. The late Canon Hughes was a brother. He is survived by two sons and two daughters. The funeral, which will be conducted with full military honors, will leave All Saints' Church, St. Kilda, for St. Kilda cemetery at 2 p.m. to-day, following a service conducted by Archdeacon Schofield, at which Archbishop Booth will give an address.

30 Oct 1965 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Saturday, 30 Oct 1965:

One night 125 years ago at the Lamb Inn, in Collins Street, a violent argument developed between Peter Snodgrass and William Ryrie during a dinner party. When the two men dueled next dawn near where Spencer Street station now stands, Snodgrass's pistol went off accidentally, resulting in the loss of one of his toes. Ryrie chivalrously "fired into the upper air."

Yesterday, the two historic pistols were produced at the opening of the Royal Insurance Group's "440 Collins Street" building on the site where the Lamb Inn, and more recently Scott's Hotel, stood. The pistols were "drawn" on the 600 startled guests gathered on the 10th floor by Mr. Raynes Dickson, a top executive of the Royal Insurance Group. ... After relating details of the history of the famous Scott's Hotel site and referring to the Snodgrass-Ryrie incident, Mr. Dickson held up the pistols and said: "As a matter of interest, I have with me today the two pistols used on that occasion. They were lent to me by a cousin of mine, Mrs. Keith Bush, who inherited them from her great-uncle, Canon Snodgrass, who was the son of the redoubtable Peter."

“So wealthy now she sits at ease in this kind land of fields and trees.”

The lines belong to South Australian born Clarence Michael James Dennis, the sentiment to generations of pioneers, toilers, farmers, merchants, and nowadays commuters who have lived in and nourished Victoria's oldest inland town—Kilmore. ...

It was near the Public Houses that one of Kilmore's more unsavory political episodes took place. The supporters of John (later Sir John) O'Shannassy, who represented Kilmore in the Legislative Assembly, didn't particularly care for his rival, one Mr. Snodgrass, and had him horse-whipped in front of the polling booth. Poor Snodgrass beat a hasty retreat. He lost the election, but his name lives on in nearby Broadford, which has a street named after him.

*17 Dec 1984 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Monday, 17 Dec 1984:

The Clarke Dynasty. By Sally White.

The old man was hugely fat. It took four men to lift him. Victorians called him "Big" Clarke. But it was not his wealth, not his physical size, that earned him the name. When William John Turner Clarke died on 15 January 1874, his estate was valued at £2.5 million. His land holdings throughout Australia were 870 square kilometres, or about two-thirds of the size of today's Melbourne metropolitan area.

The Press noted his death with the acid comment that "his widespread reputation . . . was not the result of a public career of usefulness, but was consequent on his wealth." But, if Will Clarke was not well-liked in his adopted country, later generations of Clarkes established a solid reputation.

William John Turner Clarke was born at the beginning of the 19th century. He came from yeoman stock and showed early aptitude for judging livestock. He built a small herd of cattle in England. It realized enough money for him to set sail for wider pastures in 1829.

Will Clarke and his bride, Elizabeth, arrived in Hobart on the Deveron the same year. . .

When he died he left his estranged wife, Elizabeth, a paltry £800. His middle son, too, got little, as "Big" Clarke maintained he had already provided for Thomas with money and stock. He was more generous to the eldest legitimate son, William, and the youngest, Joseph.

William was bequeathed all the old man's Victorian holdings, valued about £1.5 million. Joseph was left the Tasmanian estates and properties in South Australia and New Zealand. Both were left parcels of shares and a name held in low esteem. Fortunately, colonial memories were short.

William set about public life with energy. From the relatively quiet life he had led as manager of his father's estates, he emerged like a stylish butterfly—big-spending, vocal, and public-spirited.

William's first wife, Mary, had died in a carriage accident in 1871, and he had married Janet Snodgrass the year before his father's death. Janet, daughter of Peter Snodgrass, MLC, was a fitting partner for the newly flamboyant William. She had immense flair for spectacular entertainments.

Within months of his father's death, William began building Rupertswood at Sunbury. The house was finished in two years. It had cost £50,000 and boasted a tower and one wing devoted to the ballroom. It was set in 99 acres of gardens with a fernery, artificial lake, and a deer sanctuary. A railway ran by the property, and William Clarke exerted his influence to have a private station built.

Typical of the style of these entertainments was the party for the 1890 Congress of the Australian Association for the Advancement of Science. Seven hundred guests could choose from “peacock, turkey, chicken cooked three ways, duckling, guinea fowl, various hams, tongue, lamb, venison, lobster, salmon, plover, prawn, and foie gras.”

William and Janet Clarke were arguably Melbourne’s most conspicuous consumers, but their life was not just a social parade. William was keenly interested in his agricultural pursuits. He was an advocate of more scientific farming methods and donated prizes for the best Victorian farms.

At Dowling Forest, near Ballarat, he sub-divided his father’s old property into a model tenant farming estate, where rents were modest and leases were long. He imported advanced farm machinery and pinned his faith on Aberdeen Angus cattle well before they were generally accepted. He bred Shorthorns at Bolinda Vale, merinos at Cobram, draught horses at Dowling Forest, and had a flutter on the horses with a thoroughbred breeding program, which yielded him only one notable winner—the filly Petrea, which won the Oaks in 1879.

Yet his interests were not exclusively rural. He was commodore of the Royal Victorian Yacht Squadron, and his yacht Janet won the first intercolonial yacht race in 1881. He was the first president of the Victorian Football Association, president of the Melbourne Cricket Club, first Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of Victoria, and chairman of the committee for the Melbourne Centennial Exhibition of 1880-81.

It was his efforts for the exhibition which gained him the baronetcy in December 1882, but the honor could equally have marked his generosity as a benefactor of charitable and educational institutions. Or he could have been honored for his contribution to politics or business.

As a businessman, he was beyond reproach. When the Colonial Bank of Australia faced closure in the crash of 1893, Sir William met many of the calls with his own capital, and the bank recovered.

On 15 May 1897, Sir William stepped off a tram in Collins Street, collapsed, and died. The ‘Herald’ brought out an extraordinary edition, and the ‘Weekly Times’ paid tribute: “His life was full of usefulness and rich in charity.” In 25 years, Sir William Clarke had reversed society’s judgment on his family.

The baronetcy passed to Rupert Havelock Turner Clarke, the elder son of Sir William’s first marriage. [more about the descendants of the first wife; nothing about the descendants of Janet (Snodgrass) Clarke]

11 Aug 1992 – The Age (Melbourne, Australia), Tuesday, 11 Aug 1992:

Melbourne's Founding Families Found Again.

Evan's Emu Bottom was surrounded eventually by the land of Big William Clarke. Fittingly, one person at the gathering was descended from the Clarkes. Ian Lindsay, 27, is the great-great-grandson of Peter Snodgrass, Melbourne's best-known pioneer tearaway. You couldn't call him a larrikin; he was too well-connected. On New Year's Day 1840, Snodgrass fought a duel on the site of the Spencer street railway station, with another young squatter, William Ryrie. Firing his pistol too soon, Snodgrass grazed his own toe. The duel was over; honor had been satisfied.

A reckless horseman, Snodgrass was among the squatters who answered La Trobe's call for help in capturing bushrangers beyond Eltham. The squatters were sworn in as a posse of special constables and given firearms.

Snodgrass adored adventure. He served in the Legislative Council until the arrival of responsible government, and then he entered the Legislative Assembly and remained a member until he died in 1867. So that is one side of Ian Lindsay. Here is the other:

In the 1860s Peter Snodgrass's daughter, Janet, became governess to the children of the widower Sir William Clarke, who subsequently married her. Thus began the most brilliant social era the colony had known. She became Janet Lady Clarke, the mistress of the Sunbury mansion, Rupertswood, the dispenser of lavish hospitality, the patron of education and the arts, and friend of the poor and the sick.

When she died in 1909, she was already a legend. Melbourne genuinely mourned her. Ian Lindsay, her descendant, belongs to a grazing and hotel partnership.

Sunbury's Sporting Legacy

... Clarke's eldest son, William, born in 1831, had managed his father's properties in Victoria since 1860. He lived with his wife, Mary, and their four children in a weatherboard homestead on their Sunbury estate. In 1871 Mary was thrown from a carriage and killed. Two years later he married Marion Janet Snodgrass, with whom he had eight more children. ...

*11 Jun 1898 – The Illustrated Police News, etc. (London, England), Saturday, 11 Jun 1898: A Tragedy in the Goldfields.

A Nurse Shot By a Jealous Miner.

A terrible tragedy, involving the murder of a nurse and the suicide of her murderer, has occurred at Coolgardie. It appears that Miss Gold, a nurse connected with the Coolgardie Hospital, was going to a local charity ball when an acquaintance of hers named Snodgrass intercepted her and fired two shots at her. She was so badly wounded that she died soon afterwards. Snodgrass then shot himself, inflicting injuries which proved fatal.
