23 Feb 2009 – (obituary) (Findagrave)

Inis Marlene Harris was born August 3, 1935 in Seminole, Oklahoma, to Inis and Orville Ensley Snodgrass. She passed away February 23, 2009, at the age of 73. Marlene grew up in the Varnum and Seminole communities and attended school at Varnum, Seminole, Sasakwa, and graduated high school from Whitesboro, Texas. She married Baily Doyle Harris at Ada, Oklahoma, on July 14, 1951, a union which lasted 58 years.

Marlene served faithfully as a preacher's wife teaching Sunday School and Ladies Bible Class becoming a mentor to women in Colgate, Temple, Marlow, Mustang, and Cushing, all in Oklahoma. Many Christians now serving the Lord began their Bible knowledge in Marlene's Bible or VBS classes.

In 1980, Doyle and Marlene moved to Elk City where they made their home while preaching. Marlene was trained as a VISTA volunteer in community literacy. Realizing literacy was a tremendous passion, she established the Western Oklahoma Learning Center in 1993, where she served as Director until a year before her death. Marlene recruited and shared her passion for literacy with her daughter, Kerri, and they worked side by side for 10 years until her illness led her to pass the torch to Kerri to carry on her legacy. Marlene was so proud and so honored to teach hundreds of adults to read and write, and she especially loved teaching English as a Second Language. She proudly served on the Oklahoma Literacy Coalition Board and worked closely with the Oklahoma Department of Libraries.

But for all she accomplished, she would have said that the most important thing she did and the thing she was most proud of was living her life as a Christian and raising her children to live a life in service to God.

She was preceded in death by her parents, Orville and Mattie Inis Snodgrass, and her three sisters, Georgia, Rose, and Edna. Those who cherished her and will eternally are her husband of the home, son David Wayne Harris of Duncan, Oklahoma; daughter Melita Marlene Meyer of Edmond, Oklahoma; daughter Patricia Ilene Hayden of Elk City, Oklahoma; daughter Kerri Renee Miles of Canute, Oklahoma; brother Loren Joseph Snodgrass of Perry, Oklahoma; 13 grandchildren: Matthew Harris, Misty Brown, Mindy Cole, Jeramy Meyer, Logan Meyer, Kyle Brewer, Joshua Brewer, Hailee Nickel, Jace Nickel, Johnna Beecham, John Miles, Mattie Miles, and Jake Miles; 3 great-grandchildren: Cayden and Gavin Cole, and Weston Brewer; special daughter-in-law, Marsha Harris of Duncan; and a host of other relatives and friends.

One January day in 2009, Mama said she 'wasn't thinking clearly' and couldn't remember how to turn on her computer. An unbelievable 42 days later, she was gone. Mom had a rare (reported literally 1 in a million) brain disease called CJD (Cruetzfeld Jakkobs Disease). This disease basically acts like Alzheimer's on steroids! It was an awful way to pass for such a beautiful woman who taught adults to read and English to speakers of other languages. She had an infectious smile, accompanied by a sparkle in her eye. She never spoke an unkind word to anyone, and was always the one people would call for comfort. She was a loving wife, mother, grandmother, teacher and friend. She is missed every day by those whose lives she touched. Pray for a cure!

My cousin Mary wrote about mama:

She was so good to everyone she encountered. I remember her taking care of me while Mother worked. She always made me feel special and when I spilled a whole bottle of her favorite perfume (somehow it got all over her dresser, me, and her toilet...hummm) she wouldn't let Mother whip me. I quote Mom, as Aunt Marlene shielded me from Mother's scorn, "Now, Rosie, this little angel just wanted to smell good, too." Doesn't that just sound like Aunt Marlene? Always defending the little ones (I was three or four at the time). I miss her so very much. I still have all of her emails she send me, offering the best advice when things were so bad in my life. I can just hear her and mom in heaven giggling their heads off, with Aunt Edna instructing them on how to be proper.

28 Jan 2019 - The Oklahoman (Oklahoma, Oklahoma Co., Oklahoma), 28 Jan 2019:

Ardmore, [Carter Co.], Oklahoma--Joan F. Snodgrass died peacefully at home on Friday, Jan. 25, 2019. Joan was a gardener. She tended to her husband, John; her three daughters four grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. She cared for her community, giving generously of her love, time, and possessions to nurture those around her. A gifted architect, painter, poet, seamstress and dancer, she leaves those who knew her with a crop of cheerful and cherished memories. At every opportunity, Joan harvested the joys of life. Those who knew Joan may be surprised she did not write her own obituary: we understand. But we believe she would want us to remind you of a stanza from one of her poems: It isn't really very hard, To have a bright and beautiful yard, Instead of work, think it's fun, Playing in God's gorgeous sun. Joan was born to John Irving Fisher and Virginia Price Fisher, in Kirksville, Missouri, on Oct. 9, 1927. She graduated from Classen High School and earned a Bachelor of Science in landscape architecture and botany from The University of Oklahoma in 1949. Joan married John Snodgrass at First Presbyterian Church in Oklahoma City on Aug. 18, 1948.

Joan was preceded by her husband, parents, and brother, John Fisher. Joan is survived by her daughter, Sue Fernando, Ardmore; daughter, Cindy Johnson and husband, Dr. Robert Johnson, Ocean Springs, Michigan; daughter, Sara Snodgrass and Darla Clarke, Noble; granddaughter, Kelly Spence and husband, Scott; grandson, Bobby Fernando and wife, Morgan; grandson, Chase Johnson; grandson, Dr. Rainey Johnson and wife, Sarah Fairbrook; great-grandchildren, Ian, Addison and Rylee Spence, and Carter and Maddie Fernando; sister, Kathryn Scott; sister-in-law, Luanne Snodgrass; and nephews, John and Brent Snodgrass.

Joan's favorite color was red. Her Memorial Service will be held at 11 a.m. on Thursday, Jan. 31, 2019, at the First Methodist Church, Ardmore, Oklahoma. She would expect a sea of red. A reception will immediately follow. Instead of flowers, those wishing to send an expression of sympathy should consider a donation to Ardmore Clean Team, P.O. Box 693, Ardmore, OK 73402; Christ Community Church; or First United Methodist Church. Services have been entrusted to the Craddock Funeral Home.

Jun 1978 -- The Old Timers News (newspaper):

"The Centenarian," the Man in the Middle, by Cecil Snodgrass, 7th of 8 children of G. W. and Lu Ella Snodgrass.

Whose great-grandparents were born in the 17th century and his great grandchildren in 19th. [The headline writer miscalculated--it should be 18th & 20th, as a man born in 1867 cannot have great-grandchildren born in the 19th century.]

Who was he and what were his dreams and his problems? What was his way of life and the results thereof? What was his philosophy? What was his name?

His name was: G. W. Snodgrass, he was born in Butler County, Kentucky, March 20th, 1867. He lived one hundred three years one month and sixteen days. He was one of five living generations and at his death his descendants numbered one hundred and thirty.

G. W.'s forefathers came from Ireland around 16-17 hundred and settled in North Carolina. His mother's people also lived in North Carolina near New Bern. Some of them later lived in Virginia.

Around the year 1795 his great-grandfather, Isaac Newton Snodgrass, along with the Howards and a group of other people came to Warren County, Kentucky by way of Nashville, Tennessee. They traveled by barge on various rivers until they reached an area then known as Warren County. In 1817 they moved to Butler County. Due to rugged terrain and heavy undergrowth the area was known as the "Wild Country". Any land not continuously cultivated soon returned to jungle. It is reported that even today the place where G. W. once lived, and operated a store and post office, is now inaccessible except on foot or horse back.

G. W. was one of nine sons and daughters of a Baptist minister who fought in the Civil War on the Union (Yankee) side. He returned to farm in Butler County. Being raised on a farm he learned how to sow and reap and though he achieved what was then for that area a good education he chose to enter the realistic world of productivity as a frontier farmer. With this in mind he took to himself a child bride not yet sixteen years of age and set out on his own. Being of an independent spirit he early chose ownership as a requisite. This is a deed on record in Butler County showing that he purchased 64-1/2 acres of land on Indian Camp Creek for the total sum of $410.00. $260 cash, $90 due in four months and $60 due in six months. Quite an obligation for that time and area.

Economists were virtually unknown in that day, especially in that remote area but G. W. being short on cash soon figured out that his only chance to increase his assets was to improve his property, sell it at a profit and reinvest in undeveloped property over and over again. To do so meant it would take time and a lot of personal labor. At that time changes in the way of life were so slow that time meant nothing. The profit was almost a certainty as soon as the project was accomplished. This practice he followed through his life and was successful until the later part of his life when this method no longer produced the desired result in time to meet the requirements of the changing times which required that capital be added to speed up the end result.

Even in the early days some cash was required. To get it, as personal credit was virtually unknown in those days, he worked out for wages, mostly in the timber industry, both cutting and sawing. It was not unusual for him to put in a crop in the spring, sometimes with his log-snaking Ox teams, then go off to work in a timber operation while his eldest children and his wife tended the crops, raised a garden, fed the pigs, gathered the eggs and milked the cow. At harvest time he quit the timber, harvested the crops, laid in the wood for cooking and heating and otherwise prepared for winter and the planning of the next year's operation.

In 1911 after owning various farms, a store and a post office in Butler County, he traded for a farm in Ohio County, Kentucky. Although this farm was perhaps only a day's drive by team and wagon from where he previously lived it was more suitable for diversified farming which he had become interested in. This farm also contained a sizeable tract of good timber which lay alongside a railroad with a small creek adjacent with adequate water to supply a steam boiler with which to power a small saw mill. Having years of sawmill experience and a house full of sons old enough to man it under his supervision, he could see the possibility of year-round employment for his family.

In the winter after the crops were in they felled the timber, cut it to saw length, held log-rollings to assemble the logs, burnt the slash and hauled the logs to the stationary mill which he set up at the point where the creek and the railroad converged. Being an experienced saw man he operated the log carrier and determined the cut. One son fired the boiler. Another son with the assistance, as needed, from the fireman, and another son who manned the saw dust pit, bore off the off-fall (slabs) from the carrier as the logs were cut. The son in the dust pit with an iron wheel home-made barrow loaded the wet sawdust into the barrow and pushed it up out of the pit and to a dumping area.

Much of the timber was hardwood and made excellent cross ties. There was a ready market from the railroad for these ties. They were stacked alongside the railroad as cut and periodically a train having numerous flat cars would stop and load them up. Other timber was cut into rough lumber and sold for barns and fences. A large three story stock and tobacco barn was built on the farm. Poplar lumber was sold to a planing mill in town as it had a fine texture for finishing and made excellent finish and siding material. The land which had thus been cleared of timber was then cleared of underbrush and planted in crops the next spring.

Being very fertile this land usually was planted to corn or tobacco, both cash crops. In the winter, when the weather was too severe to work in the timber, in the barn, there was always corn to be shucked or tobacco to be stripped and tied into hands. Also more wood to be hauled in for heating and cooking.

On this farm a small herd of shorthorn cattle were started and the small harness mares commonly used for both riding, carriage and work stock, raised a good plow mule for light cultivation in small tracts which also were prevalent in the area, especially the hill country. G. W. saw that his mares did double duty by raising a mule while or as well as pulling the plow. He also planted an orchard to supplement the food which was otherwise raised on the farm, also selling fruit trees for a profit.

Living a life pioneer style in those days had its compensations but it also had its hardships with no modern conveniences such as bath tubs, electricity, stoves or washing machines. No automobiles or credit cards were available. It required a great deal of resourcefulness and foresight. That G. W. had both was further demonstrated by the fact that from a Poplar tree, cut from his land, he sawed in his own saw mill, the lumber to make his casket. Few of us exhibit that much foresight at the age of forty seven. It is reported that not many years ago it was still stored in the tobacco barn on that place.

With the frontier spirit still in him at the age of forty eight and his youngest child only two years old he traded (sight unseen), this small but good farm for a half section of land in Cimarron County, Oklahoma, an area then known as "No Man's Land". He then took his remaining family, two boys and two girls, west to become a dry land farmer, mostly wheat and small grains, and a breeder of horses. Arriving at Elkhart, Kansas, the nearest railroad town to his new land (43 miles), in mid-November 1916 he purchased a team of heavy draft horses and a covered wagon and proceeded to Go West. After three days of travel into unknown country where there were no graded roads to guide him he arrived at the land. Certainly an arid farm with a one room shack for living quarters and no windmill or fences or trees was not a welcome sight for a family who had moved out of a large log house in a timbered country.

The first winter was spent hauling water from a neighbors well a mile away, groceries and mail from a small store and P.O. three miles away and groceries and coal from 43 miles away. He had not learned of cow chips, that was to come later.

As the years went by in his new home in the west there were some good crops, some fair and many complete failures, as is custom in all arid areas not under irrigation. Crops when raised had to be hauled a long distance to market. More machinery was required for farming. More horses to pull the machinery. The long trip to market required two wagons and six horses to make a pay load. Coal and groceries were hauled on the return trips. A trip required 2-1/2 to 3 days' time. Feed for the horses had to be carried on top of the load. Large bed rolls were required to keep the driver warm as he many times was required to sleep out on the ground, waking up with snow on his cover. It took a great deal more cash to operate this new farm than the former ones and to span the gaps from crop through the drouths to another one.

To get this cash G. W. first invested in a mixed breed of cows which would not only raise a calf, suitable for the beef market, but that would give enough milk to pay for milking. He sold cream as did many of his neighbors. His good wife raised chickens, sold eggs, raised a garden which was irrigated from the overflow of water from the stock tank, water which was pumped by the windmill. One of his sons made a wheat harvest or two in Kansas and sent home the earnings.

Always looking to the future and planning in advance he decided that the area was short on good heavy draft horses to do the farming on so large a scale. Not having the cash to purchase heavy broodmares he invested in a registered Percheron stallion and bred the light bronc mares which had been used as work animals. These broncs were small but vigorous and tough and some raised good colts but it required the second and third generation of them to produce real good draft animals. With this lapse of time, the truck and the tractor had replaced their usefulness and marketability and the best of them was worth less than $100, the worst $10. With an average of $35 it would take 100 of them to buy a truck and tractor with attachments. It was too little, too late.

During the dust bowl days of the early thirties G. W. was required to take his ailing wife and his animals out of the area to save them. He remained away for two years. Starting again with fewer animals, only one child left at home and assets diminished it again was rough going. There were some good years and some bad. With failing health of both himself and his wife he sold the land and moved to town.

The changing times and ways of the world were so great and so fast that the methods of success used as a frontiersman with little money would not produce the desired result in a short enough time to realize a profit. It must have been a very trying time for him to experience these reverses so late in life. There of course was no Social Security at that time and to go on relief even in last days was unthinkable to a man of his spirit. To worry about the support of his wife and himself must have been very trying. No doubt he could see this for the past several years, small wonder there was vinegar in his cup, his conversations and directives like telegraphic sentences, seemingly dictatorial and hard even bordering on the cruel.

G. W.'s philosophy of life had been one of conservative industry, strong family life and ties, home ownership and a genuine desire to improve the lot of his family and himself. Many of his forefathers were Baptist ministers and as such they adhered strictly to the Bible teachings that the man is the head of the family. As such he was responsible for family planning and all decisions which might affect them. Such responsibility (some would consider it a privilege) is enough to make most men bossy and dictatorial. But, have you ever noticed that under similar circumstances many women develop the same shortcomings?

He also had a high regard for honesty, discipline, law and order. A spade was a spade and enforcement to him was as much a part of the law as the law itself. The merits of interpretations of the law to fit each case, the release of law breakers, as practiced by our spineless moral derelicts called judges, the Darwinian teachings and permissiveness which is practiced in our homes and schools, the dishonest practices of too many of our present day generation in general would have been a frustration beyond his comprehension. He was a Republican. In his day it represented a more conservative and sound long range viewpoint than did the democratic philosophy. It would have been a great disappointment to him had he known that the only philosophy that would be practiced today was that of, Get the votes, that the banner would be secondary to vote getting.

The New Deal was abhorrent to his way of thinking. He would have been in despair had he known the true meaning of the New Frontier and the Great Society of the sixties. He probably would have thought that Watergate was some kind of an irrigation project. Could be, there were plumbers and a lot of trash got washed out. Even so they haven't been able to stop the leaks.

Most of G. W.'s children would have openly stated they did not like the stern discipline and dictatorial policies of their father; however, at the same time they would be admitting that they did not like themselves very well either, for they and a large number of their children have inherited the same characteristics. None of us take any lip from anyone else. In case you doubt it, just ask your spouse (providing she has not already run you off). All of them are quick to express their opinion, usually in a very strong manner even before the circumstances are reviewed. Most of us have a tendency to lead while others follow. We want to get the job done. Since it is impossible to lead in most cases without giving directions and pointing out pitfalls, they appear to some to be bossy, especially to each other, since they all have a tendency to lead.

This circumstance was plainly demonstrated last winter when Roy and the writer was building a fence on the writer's land near Deming, N.M. After three days of telling the writer what to do and how, Roy suddenly said, "I guess you think I am terribly bossy, but I have been boss for over thirty years and it is hard to realize that I am not in this case." The writer got a big charge out of it. Having been a boss for many years he had figured out that anyone with bossing ability coupled with a desire to work himself would produce twice that produced by the average follower. Whetting his ego by objecting to the bossing was not to be considered when so much work could be obtained for free from the eager beaver.

G. W. was not only a family man but a religious man. His discipline of respect for these two institutions runs strong in his descendants. Witness the fact that six grandsons were casket bearers at his funeral. Two of them came over one thousand miles not knowing they would so perform after arriving. No one forced them to come. Some of us would have to see some immediate action in order to have six grandchildren of any kind. To date the writer can boast of only three cats, 1 black, 1 white and 1 striped. I doubt by the time we of the second generation die it will be against Union Rules or so called Professional Ethics for a relative or friend to be a casket bearer.

The discipline of family loyalty and love of God was further demonstrated in connection with the writer's own recent loss, by phone calls, letters, flowers, and offers of service, both personal and financial) by not only his brothers and sisters but by nephews, nieces, and great nieces. Contrast that loyalty with that of two sisters, whose mother recently passed away. This lady had been a Christian woman the major portion of her life, had served her Lord, her church, her friends and her family with love and kindness both physically and financially. Her love was openly demonstrated too because she herself was a loving person. Her friends were legion. To honor this exemplary life as we... their mother as such and to give her many friends the pleasure and privilege of paying their last respects to her, these two daughters, both modern executives, suggested a small quiet graveside service, changing their minds only after being prevailed upon. They of course saw to it that a $65 floral spray was placed at the casket. They generously mailed the bill for it to the step-father whose only income the preceding six months had been a small social security check. This despite the fact that each daughter had a husband who held a good job and each had only one child.

The happiness that comes with living with a spouse who daily personally demonstrates their love in a very personal way can only be known and appreciated by those who have been fortunate enough to do so. The writer with two children and little money being the sole support of his family for twenty one years had found little time to personally demonstrate his love. His time was spent (Bossing), showing the way and pointing out the pitfalls. Not having a strong voice it sometimes became necessary to apply power to raise it. He then was accused of preaching. With eight children to raise? WELL!

But personally demonstrated love is not the only kind of love. There are many acts of indirect love. Like, the decision to take a bride, the decision to raise a family, the purchase and improvement of a home, the planting of a tree or a vineyard, a flower, the starting of a herd. Teaching right from wrong, the discipline of honesty, restraint, temperance and control. The going with your family to church not only to worship and sing God's praises but to help educate your children as to their origin and their hereafter that they may themselves decide if they will go to heaven or spend eternity in hell. All these and many more are acts of love although in our ineptness they did not appear as such. We believe that G. W. had this kind of love and the lives of the majority of his descendants have demonstrated that fact, and though he died a poor man when measured in worldly goods, his life was not a failure.

Such then, was the life of "THE CENTENARIAN", the Man in the Middle, whose life span bridged the span between the 17th [18th] and the 19th [20th] century when the greatest change in the lifestyle and thinking of many took place that has occurred in recent history. This was the man, G. W. Snodgrass who lived 103 years to produce 130 descendants with 121 of them living at his death. BUT, no man can accomplish all these things alone. What then of the Mother of this tribe? the child bride,

Who held his hand, and made his bed;
Who listened in silence, to all he said;
Who darned his sox, and cooked his meals;
Who hoed the garden while he tended the fields;
Who washed the diapers, for the children she bore;
And every two years, there were more and more;
Who traded her bed, for a lantern at night;
At the cry of a child, who might be in fright;
Who tended his store, and put out the mail;
Who saw the crops grow, and saw them fail;
Who through it all, she stayed by his side
And wept with him, when the daughter died;
Who was born in the east, but moved to the west;
Whose life span was eighty, when she was laid to rest;

Her name was

LuElla Jane Evans

Lu Ella Jane, was also born in Butler County, Kentucky, August 5th, 1873. Her great grandfather came to Kentucky from Virginia in 1795. She could also claim as her foreparents some of the Cooks who originally came to America in the ship Mayflower. Her grandmother on her mother's side was a Coy, believed to be a relative of the eastern Kentucky families commonly referred to as "The Hatfields and the [Mc]Coys, those reckless mountain boys." Her father, Moses Evans, fought in the civil war on the side of the Rebels (South).

Lu Ella was a medium sized woman, soft spoken, of a retiring nature who performed her duties as was custom in those days of submissive wives. Bearing her children plagued with ill health and an endless amount of work she asked for little and complained little. She loved her children and was always glad to see them but never dictated when they were to visit them again. Although she was not the strict disciplinarian as her husband, she nevertheless could wield the switch and did so when occasion demanded. There was no lack of discipline under her supervision.

Hers was the truly Pioneer life, wood cook and heating stoves, wash tub and rubboard, no bath tub until the later days. Coal oil and gasoline lamps and lanterns were her lot the major portion of her life and a four burner oil stove was the most modern appliance she ever possessed.

For many years she was plagued with fevers and gallstones. Living in rural areas she suffered much. Not being able to drink milk she ate her cereal with water, UGH. But she complained little. Although ill a great portion of her life, she lived eighty years only to die of hospital pneumonia after having been confined for a broken hip which had almost healed.

She was laid to rest by her daughter and grandchildren who had preceded her in death, in the family grave site at Boise City, Oklahoma.

1930 census

Sep 1948 -- Chronicles of Oklahoma, vol. 27, page 410: Biography of Judge Milton Garber, d. 12 Sep 1948.

It was on the 58th anniversary of that historic day in 1893 when he made the Run into the famed Cherokee Strip that citizens from the entire area of northwest Oklahoma gathered at his [Judge Milton Garber's] beautiful country home, Elmstead, north of the city, to pay him final tribute. Hundreds of friends gathered with bowed heads to honor the death of him whom they had called friend and advisor in life. They came from near and far, the rich and the poor, the white, the black, and the red man to join the solemn service conducted by the Rev. Isaac Newton McCash, President Emeritus of Phillips University, Enid, fellow mason and friend of the deceased. The prayer was offered by the Rev. Ray E. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian Church, of which congregation Judge Garber was a member. The Honorable P. C. Simmons, representing the Garfield County Bar Association, gave the eulogy.

Mr. Redmond S. Cole, Tulsa, OK

Dear Sir:

We have filled in all the information we have on the questionnaire. I am writing this for my father, Thomas L. Snodgrass; he is still living--age 83--and is in fairly good health. His memory does not serve him too well and he would like to know who the lady was that you refer to as having talked to her before you met Mr. Snodgrass? And what prompted and started this history of his family? If you would please recall this for him, we would appreciate it.

Thanking you in advance for this information,

Yours truly, Mrs. James L. Fray, Box 1343, Pryor, OK (Carlotta M. Snodgrass)

7 Aug 1922 – Lima News (Lima, Ohio) (Ancestry), 7 Aug 1922:

Muskogee, Okla.—William Snodgrass learned broom making as a boy. Preferring not to be tied all his life to one trade, however, he learned piano tuning, too. It was for amusement that he began carving toys. At all three of these pursuits he is an expert, teaching them as well as following them himself.

But Snodgrass's main business is fruit raising. He has a model orchard of 400 trees and a vineyard of 600 vines. He requires no help to care for them, except during the rush of picking.

It was by tinkering with his own machine that he became a clever automobile repairman, and at this occupation he makes considerable money when he can be spared from his other work.

Snodgrass superintended construction of a six-room bungalow he has just finished on a five-acre patch he bought for his aged parents, whom he supports.

Twenty-six years old now, he has been blind for 19 years.

Oma Snodgrass was born Oma Dotson October 14, 1912, at Huntsville, Arkansas. Her parents were Rachel and Tom Dotson. They moved to Tahlequah when Oma was about three years of age. She started school at the Mt. Zion School, between Hulbert and Tahlequah. Oma had three sisters and one brother: Odra Dause of Tahlequah, who has six children; May Mayfield of Muskogee, who had one son; Wilma Cookson of Muskogee, who has two children; J. T. Dotson of Tahlequah, who has one son. Oma married Bruce Snodgrass in 1927. From this union her one child was born, son Bill Snodgrass. Oma worked at the DuPont Powder Plant at Chouteau and then at the B. F. Goodrich plant in Miami before moving to Wagoner. While at Miami, she was married to Quinton Nelson. After moving to Wagoner, she became very active in Democratic politics. Although she owned a Toronado, she was well-known for driving her 1949 red Ford pick-up around town. She loved the town of Wagoner, but she also liked driving "Old Red" out to her son's ranch eight miles north of Wagoner.

Her son, Bill Snodgrass, graduated from Northeastern and received his Master's degree from Oklahoma State University, and his Administrator's certificate. He is now principal of Mingo School, Tulsa, and commutes from his ranch, Bluestem Valley. Bill married Sandra Garrett, daughter of Arley and Beulah Garrett, whose story is in this book. They have five children: Linidy Kernyansky, teacher at Union School, Tulsa; Lynetta Lockwood, who lives in Wagoner and works at Prestolite; Bobby Snodgrass, lives on his farm near Mazie, and works in Tulsa; Kelly Snodgrass, who lives and works in Tulsa; Billy jack Snodgrass of the home. They also have three grandchildren: Sherry Ann Snodgrass, Ben Snodgrass and Denna Joice.

Oma passed away suddenly November 9, 1976, and is buried at the Pioneer Cemetery, Wagoner.

1922 -- Muskogee and Northeastern Oklahoma : including the counties of Muskogee, McIntosh, Wagoner, Cherokee, Sequoyah, Adair, Delaware, Mayes, Rogers, Washington, Nowata, Craig, and Ottawa (John D. Benedict : Chicago : Clark Publishing, 1922)

In a record that gives a history of those who have contributed to the agricultural development of Washington County mention should be made of James M. Hamilton, a pioneer of Oklahoma, who passed away in 1911, at the comparatively early age of forty-two years, his demise being deeply regretted by a large circle of friends. A native of Missouri, he was born April 1, 1869, and in 1883 came to Indian Territory with his parents, Hugh Evans and Olivia (Snodgrass) Hamilton, who settled on a farm near the Wauhilla post office. Both are now deceased, the former passing away in 1901 and the latter in 1905.

Upon starting out in life for himself James M. Hamilton took up the occupation of farming, also devoting his attention to stock raising, and through his practical and progressive methods, close application and persistency of purpose he won a substantial measure of success, being numbered among the representative agriculturists of his section of the state.

On October 27, 1890, Mr. Hamilton was united in marriage to Miss Lugenia Randolph, a native of this state, who was born in the Flint district, near Clear Springs, her parents being James and Martha Jane (Holland) Randolph, both now deceased. Their family numbered two children: Lugenia; and Malderine, now the wife of George W. Vincent, who acts as district agent of the agricultural department of Oklahoma and resides at Stillwater. Mrs. Hamilton attended the public schools and also the female seminary public at Tahlequah, Oklahoma, graduating from the latter institution in 1887. To Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton were born four children: Hugh Marvin; and Clarence W., James Randolph and George Toliver, who are attending school at Dewey and reside with their mother. The eldest son was born at Grove, Oklahoma, January 1, 1897, and after completing a public school course at Dewey secured a business education at Chillicothe, Missouri, finishing his studies in 1918. He then embarked in the oil business, with which he has since been connected as a producer, and he now owns and operates an eighty-acre tract, on which there are fifteen producing wells with a flow of about thirty-five barrels per day. He also engages in general farming, raising the cereals best adapted to soil and climatic conditions here. On his place, which is situated just across the highway from his mother's property, he has erected a fine home at a cost of over seventy-five hundred dollars. He owns twenty acres in the timber and mineral belt in Cherokee County and is a most successful business man. In 1918 he married Miss Golden Gorman of Texas.

Fraternal affiliations of Mr. James M. Hamilton were with the Masons and the Independent Order of Odd Fellows. His life was an upright and honorable one and in his passing the community lost one of its valued citizens, his associates a faithful friend and his family a devoted husband and father.

His widow now resides on a tract of two hundred and forty acres near Dewey, on which there is a production of one hundred barrels of oil daily. She acts as the guardian of her sons and is a very capable business woman. When the leases expired, she purchased the equipment from the lessees and now has full charge of the property, realizing substantial returns from her efforts in connection with oil production. On February 18, 1916, she married H. C. Kemble, a native of Pennsylvania, who possesses an expert knowledge of the oil business and is now looking after the interests of his wife. He drilled the first oil well on the old Cherokee lease near Chelsea, in 1886, in the days when all men were provided with six-shooters, and long experience has made him thoroughly familiar with every phase of oil development here. Mrs. Kemble is a representative of one of the oldest families of the state, her ancestors in the paternal line coming here from North Carolina with the Cherokees in 1835, her paternal grandfather being one of the soldiers whose duty it was to guard the party during the journey to their new home in Indian Territory. Both her father and grandfather bore the name of James Randolph and the latter was a native of Maryland and of mixed Cherokee descent, while her maternal grandparents were Andrew and Elsie Adair. She is a faithful and consistent member of the Methodist Church, guiding her life by its teachings, and the poor and needy never seek her aid in vain. She is well known and popular in local social and fraternal organizations, belonging to the Lathes' Aid, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the Woodmen's Circle and she is likewise identified with the Red Cross. She remembers seeing the first railroad train at Muskogee when she was but five years old and her reminiscences of the early days are most interesting and instructive, for those things which are to others historical events are to her matters of personal knowledge and experience. Her life has been one of great usefulness and activity, of unselfish devotion to the interests of others, and she is one whom to know is to esteem and admire. Her father, James Randolph, went to the gold fields of California in '49, with a party. He drove a herd of cattle through and had some thrilling experiences. He lived there fifteen years and then returned to Oklahoma, where he died.
